

ECON 3010 Student Questions

Spring 2020

1. How has president trump done compared to President Obama when looking at the overall economy?
2. How does nominal GDP affect me compared to real GDP?
3. What kind of policy reforms can create a stronger and more long lasting growth?
4. How has globalization impacted the American economy
5. How will Brexit affect the global economy?
6. Can changes in GDP be indicators for how the economy will trend in the future?
7. If the economy keeps booming at the current rate, would it be possible to see another great depression? And would it be worse?
8. What major factors effect wheat commodity prices and why have they been lower in the recent years?
9. How do you beat the chair the fed game on the main page?
10. What is game theory?
11. What must happen in the economy to cause deflation?
12. What do you think will happen to the U.S. macroeconomy in response to the U.K. leaving the E.U.?
13. One question I'd like to have answered is how can we effectively predict how much/little our GDP is going to grow?
14. How will trumps new china deal effect macroeconomics and by how much?
15. What are the benefits to inflation?
16. Is macroeconomics more important than microeconomics?
17. If the economy is essentially just a perception with almost no right or wrong answers. Why do we not always assume the economy is good?
18. Why do we have inflation, and why is it a problem?
19. How heavy would the effect be on the economies of countries with a lot of poaching if animal poaching was actually stopped?
20. Why is the cost of housing and living going up every year?
21. Has the Keynesian or classical economic system shown to be more successful than the other?
22. Has demand for corona beer gone up or gone down as a result of the corona virus? If it has gone down, is beer the culprit?
23. How would doubling the federal minimum wage effect inflation?
24. What is the best way to increase GDP yearly in your opinion?
25. How do impending elections affect the macroeconomy?
26. What is the best unemployment rate to be at? Since you don't want to have zero.

27. Where do you see the future of macroeconomics going with the fast paced growth of technology? Will it help or hinder?
28. At what point does the U.S. economy have too large of a deficit and no longer has the ability to pay short term obligations?
29. Why is the unemployment rate going down while tons jobs are being forfeited to technological advances?
30. Should the United States president be able to make large economic promises or should that be a department or agency that is tailored thus?
31. How can people become excited about trying to influence the macro economy with limited buying power?
32. How do we find real GDP or GDP deflator when we do not have the other? (formulas for each use the other and nominal GDP)
33. Do all countries measure GDP the same way?
34. What would be the effect on the U.S. if china decided to no longer house us business until our debt was payed off?
35. How are CPI and unemployment rate related?
36. Unemployment rate?
37. What causes the gap between the rich and the poor to be so wide? Can it be fixed?
38. Which president is responsible for the largest growth in real GDP? Largest loss in real GDP?
39. Can you apply macroeconomics to any career field?
40. How accurate is the measure of GDP? How are certain goods kept from being counted twice in GDP?
41. How to find EV?
42. What is arguably the most important aspect of macroeconomics for the United States at this point of time?